LAW ON LAO NATIONALITY

Chapter 1 General Provisions

Article 1. Purpose

The Law on Lao Nationality defines principles and rules on the acquisition and forfeiture of Lao nationality with the aim of administering and monitoring the citizens effectively according to the laws and regulations, [in order] to improve the dignity of citizens and [their] responsibility to the nation, to educate and extend solidarity and [compassion] to the nation of the Lao people, [to encourage] good traditional practices, and to strengthen the relationship between the Lao People's Democratic Republic as the State and Lao citizens.

Article 2. Lao Nationality

Lao nationality is a political and legal relationship closely linking an individual to the Lao People's Democratic Republic[; such relationship] confers rights and obligations of citizenship upon the individual towards the Lao People's Democratic Republic, and confers rights and obligations upon the Lao People's Democratic Republic towards such citizen.

An individual holding Lao nationality is a Lao citizen.

Article 3. One Nationality Only

The Lao People's Democratic Republic does not authorize Lao citizens to hold several nationalities at the same time.¹

Article 4. Preservation of Lao Nationality

The marriage of a Lao citizen with or the divorce of a Lao citizen from individuals holding other nationalities or without nationality will not alter their Lao nationality.

¹ The translators are aware that this Article is arguably inconsistent with Article 15.

Acquisition or forfeiture of Lao nationality will not induce any change in the nationality of the other spouse.

Article 5. Protection of Lao Citizens Overseas

The Lao People’s Democratic Republic administers and protects the legitimate rights and interests of Lao citizens residing overseas.

Article 6. Non-extradition of Lao Citizens

The Lao People’s Democratic Republic shall not extradite its citizens to a foreign state.

Article 7. Foreign Individual, Alien and Apatrid

A “foreign individual”² is a person holding another nationality who enters the Lao People’s Democratic Republic [either] temporarily or for a longer period in order to fulfill certain tasks and [who,] after completion of the tasks[,] may return to his³ home country. This kind of individual is under the management of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and other concerned⁴ authorities.

An “alien”⁵ is an individual holding another nationality who enters to reside and live in the Lao People’s Democratic Republic for a long period, who holds an alien identification card, and whose government still regards him as its citizen.

An “apatrid”⁶ is an individual residing in the territory of the Lao People’s Democratic Republic who is not a Lao citizen and who is unable to certify his nationality.

Aliens and apatrids are under the administration of the Ministry of Security and concerned authorities.

“Foreign citizens”⁷ under this law include foreign individuals and aliens.

³ The reader should note that the Lao language does not distinguish between genders in pronouns. In this translation, a reference to a gender is a reference to all genders, unless the context requires otherwise. The translators’ decision to use the male gender was made in the interests of simplicity and consistency.

⁴ The word “concerned” is used in the sense of “relevant” or “tasked with responsibility over”.

⁵ The quotation marks have been added and are not in the original text.
